ABOUT KUALA SELANGOR

History

The origins of Kuala Selangor can be traced back to the 17th century. However, settlers have long occupied the region centuries before. This is indicated by the mentions of sub-district Jeram and even neighbouring district Klang in ancient literature such as the 14th century Nagarakretagama, 15th century Mao Kun map made during the Ming dynasty and 16th century Malay Annals. Although Kuala Selangor directly translates to “Confluence of the Selangor River”, there are several folk tales that have led to the formulation of the ‘Selangor’ name. These include mentions of a blowfly (translates to Selangau) to mentangau trees.

After Johor won a war against Jambi (province of Indonesia) with the help of Bugis mercenaries from Sulawesi in the late 17th century, these warriors migrated and inhabited along the coast of Selangor, including Kuala Selangor. This led Selangor to be the only state in Peninsular Malaya to be founded by the Bugis. Under Raja Salehuddin, they established a powerbase by creating the Selangor Sultanate and cementing Kuala Selangor as the first old royal capital of Selangor in 1766. In 1784, Kuala Selangor was conquered by Dutch forces as they attempted to broaden their base in Malacca. Although Sultan Ibrahim managed to drive the invaders out a year later, the district was soon captured by the British before eventually returning to the hands of Selangor royalty.

POPULATION, AREA AND BORDER

Located in the northwestern region of Selangor, Kuala Selangor has an estimated landmass of 1,194.52 square kilometres. Within it, the district is separated into nine sub-districts or administrative divisions: Api-Api, Bestari Jaya, Ujong Permatang, Ulu Tinggi, Ijok, Jeram, Kuala Selangor, Pasangan and Tanjung Karang. The Selangor River runs horizontally through the middle. In fact, it creates a divide between Kuala Selangor and Tanjung Karang.

In terms of neighbouring districts, it is surrounded by Sabak Bernam in the North, Hulu Selangor in the North East, Klang in the South along with Petaling and Gombak in the South East. Additionally, the Straits of Malacca is directly located in the West. Thus, this territory possesses a long sandy stretch of coastline. Other attractive terrains include palm oil plantations, paddy fields, rivers, rainforests and wetlands.

Regarding the population, Kuala Selangor has approximately 161,168 total residents, according to the findings made by the Department of Statistics Malaysia in 2020. The Malay community ranks as the overwhelming majority, followed by Indian, Chinese and other ethnicities.

HISTORY OF KUALA SELANGOR

If you are looking to relax and enjoy a serene adventure far away from the hustle and bustle of the metropolis, Kuala Selangor is the place for you. As the majority of the geographical landscape of Kuala Selangor has been maintained in its natural state, tourists can expect to relish in a multitude of nature-themed activities. In fact, most of the ones on our list are unusual, rare phenomena that are tough to find elsewhere.

Speaking of which, Sky Mirror in Sasaran Beach is a clear reflective wonder that will guarantee stunning, Instagram-worthy images. Similarly, the neon glow of Blue Tears occurring below the Kuala Selangor River will be another picturesque view. Also, feel free to explore the glorious flora and fauna housed in the Kuala Selangor Nature Park. On the other hand, history buffs can take a trip to Bukit Melawati to view and learn more on the ancient relics of Selangor's history -- including buildings and sites linked to the royal family and the Dutch invasion.

PLACES TO VISIT

Sky Mirror

Reminiscent to the one in Bolivia's Salar de Uyuni, the Sky Mirror in Kuala Selangor's Sasaran Beach is a truly magnificent wonder. This natural phenomenon occurs during low tide under clear skies, with no evident clouds or rain, to form a HD-like reflective image. As it's located 1.74 nautical miles off the coast of Jeram (in the middle of the Straits of Malacca), you'll have to get there early via boat ride. Just be sure to wear sunscreen to protect yourself from the harsh reflective rays.

Kuala Selangor Nature Park

As a sanctuary for an abundant mix of flora and fauna, the Kuala Selangor Nature Park encompasses 296 hectares of tropical rainforest, mangrove swamp and manmade lake.

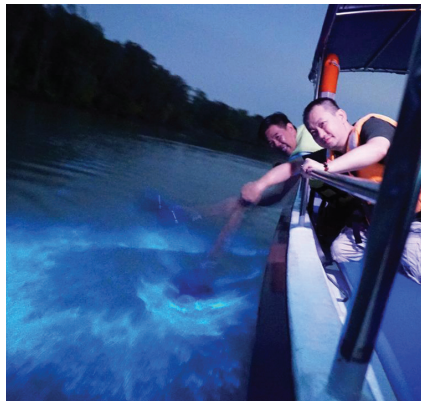

Although bird-watching is one of the main activities here thanks to the 156 species available, witness many other wildlife by walking along the four paved trails.

Malawati Hill

Involved in the war against the Dutch, the historical site of Malawati Hill is home to Malawati Fort along with the remaining cannons (including Chief Cannon). Similarly, visit the Altingsburg Lighthouse, Seven Wells, 100-Step Stairway, Hampar Stone, Kuala Selangor Historical Museum, Royal Mausoleum, Observatory Tower (Baitulhilar), Poisoned Well and the Virgin's Tomb. Littered with gentle Silver Leaf monkeys, this hillside also provides a gorgeous view of the Selangor coastline.

Blue Tears

Generated by bioluminescent phytoplankton (dinoflagellates algae), the Blue Tears phenomenon in the Kuala Selangor River is a must-see. Emitting patches of neon blue-green lights under the rippling sea, it's best to catch the approximate hour-long boat ride during high tide with dark night skies above to increase your chances of spotting them.

THE INCREDIBLE POTTER

Adi Guru Bahagian Ceramik

V.N Ramadas a/l Vengadasalam

Considering the finest clay is found near the coastline, the pottery industry has always been an important aspect of Kuala Selangor's history. Awarded the 2012 Kuala Selangor Pottery Master Craftsman title for cultural excellence, development and preservation is V.N Ramadas A/L Vengadasalam of the Ramadas Pottery Factory, also known as V.N Ramadas Pottery. Devoting almost 50 years to Indian pottery-making, he was taught the basics by his father who started the business in 1931.

After taking over, this master in pottery and ceramics implemented the knowledge and skills acquired from the Malaysian Institute of Art to improve his products. Made with rare ball clay, items include cookware, house decorations, worship statues and incense burner holders. Apart from ceramics, batu tungku (healing stone) is also sold here. Although this is a traditional artform, the practice is still kept alive and well as the older generation still uses a lot of earthenware, notably for cooking.

In recent years, modern technology has been employed to ease the preparation process. This includes electricity-powered spins, mixers and permanent kilns. In spite of these beneficial additions, the antique equipment is still maintained for visitors. In fact, the workshop still operates in a modest yet spacious hut along Jalan Kelang. It is divided into three areas: front for throwing and teaching, adjoining for kiln and firewood and rear for casting and drying.

Nowadays, the business is managed by his master potter son, Velavar. Therefore, do not be shocked to find out that the store is also referred to as Velavar Pottery. Live demonstrations, 2-hour learning courses and student interview opportunities are available here to tourists and locals alike. Overall, the Ramadas name is renowned in Selangor and stands as one of the last traditional potteries remaining in Kuala Selangor, out of the estimated original 50. Book an appointment or feel free to walk-in to experience the fun.

Kampung Kuantan Firefly Sanctuary

One of the three locations in Kuala Selangor to observe the enchanting fireflies is the Kampung Kuantan Firefly Park. Currently managed and developed by the Kuala Selangor Municipal Council, this eco-venture was initially capitalised during the 1970s by a local businessman. Enveloped by acres of coconut and palm trees, take a sampan (non-motorised, wooden boat) ride along the winding Sungai Selangor River to carefully get closer to the mangrove swamps housing these flickering creatures.

With the Pteroptyx tener species as the dominant type available in this region, the males emit a brighter light than the females to attract them. Therefore, enjoy maximum visibility by heading over just after 8:00pm on a cloudless, moonless night when they are most likely still active. With an estimated RM60.00 per sampan (Malaysian) and RM100.00 per sampan (Foreigner), the total boat journey is about 20 minutes. Keep in mind that mosquito repellent is recommended while flash photography is not to avoid disruption.

For a relatively laid-back yet challenging sport to pass the time, head over to the Kampung Kuantan Royal Golf Club (RKKGC). Nestled in the rural village of Bukit Rotan, flee the chaos of the city and spend hours working on your "A" game at the oldest golf club in Selangor. In terms of the journey, it only takes about 45 minutes to drive from Kuala Lumpur, Petaling Jaya and the Klang Valley.

This 2,771-meter par 35 nine-hole field, which has since been remodeled with 18 holes, was constructed by British farmers in 1910. Therefore, this recreational golf course is among the first ones to exist in Malaysia. It remains challenging to both novices and high handicapped players, particularly the small putting green marked at a higher position. As the course necessitates walking, basic fitness is required. After the game, feel free to unwind at the colonial clubhouse.

Those that are extra keen can look into the various attractive membership plans offered, including the affiliate membership (with 31 other golf clubs nationwide).

INTRODUCTION TO PASIR PENAMBANG

Hailed as a local haven for procuring and indulging in fresh seafood is none other than Pasir Penambang. After all, it is a simple yet charming fishing district located right next to the Straits of Melaka. Based in the northern area of the seaside region of Selangor, it can take about an hour (or around 80 km) to drive from Kuala Lumpur. In terms of the population, the Hokkien-speaking Chinese community stands as the majority of this sub-district.

Bagan Sungai Yu is known as the central fishing village, so you can be sure to observe a series of boats parked at the jetty. It also constitutes the main population centre in the sector. Regarding the history, this little village was founded by Indonesian Chinese who escaped from Panipahan, Indonesia during the 1940s Japanese occupation. As seafood is the highlight here, it goes without saying that fishing and merchandising or trading in marine products is the leading sector of employment.

On a related note, the gastronomic scene in Pasir Penambang has flourished. This has led to its proud reputation as one of the top seafood areas to visit in Selangor. Ergo, expect to find many seafood restaurants here -- especially along the shoreline of the Selangor River. Furthermore, many have travelled from near and far to taste the many different types of fresh catches, together with the dried or preserved marine products available. From juicy crabs to enormous fishes, seafood lovers will be delighted to dine at any of these establishments. Aside from the product itself, these restaurants offer a variety of cooking styles too.

Monkey God Temple

Built on the opposite bank of the Selangor River are two neighbouring Chinese temples. One of them is known as the Monkey God Temple. The grand entrance is marked by a gigantic and vibrant, multicoloured gateway structure called paifang. This expansive temple is dedicated to the Monkey King of the Ming Dynasty, also referred to as Sun Ng Hung or Sūn Wūkōng. The statue of the beloved trickster god who eventually gained enlightenment as Tang Sanzang's disciple is erected inside. Behind the temple also lies a cave-like structure with several statues surrounding the top area.

Another Chinese temple located in close proximity to the one above is the Qi Jian Xian Shi Fo Zu Gu Miao Temple. In fact, it is only a quick 2-minute walk away. Architecturally, the most extraordinary feature of this two-level temple is the artificial cave constructed with stalactites. This is followed by the pair of grand staircases leading up the top floor. There are two levels to this sacred site. At the bottom is the main prayer hall dedicated to Ta Mo Zu Shi, Lord Buddha and Goddess Guan Yin. On the other hand, the top is devoted to Di Zang Wang Pu Sa.

Firefly Park Resort

Another fantastic hotspot to witness the magical wonder of fireflies is at the Firefly Park Resort in Bukit Belimbing. It is one of the three locations to view this spectacular natural phenomenon in Kuala Selangor. These large clusters of light bugs flashing in synchrony can be found residing in the mangrove trees (also known as berembang trees), all along the muddy shorelines of the Selangor River.

At this resort, a fleet of modern fiberglass boats are utilised to transport passengers. They are supposedly electrically-powered to minimise air pollution and noise. In any case, it is imperative for boats to pass through as quietly as possible to avoid distressing or scaring off the fireflies. As they begin to exhibit their bright lights one hour after sunset, it is said that the best time to go for a night boat ride is during a clear, moonless sky. While Malaysians can enjoy individual ticket fares below RM20, non-Malaysian adults are priced at

Warong Ketupat Kampung Permatang

The specialty of Warong Ketupat Kampung Permatang is in its name: ketupat, or rice packed inside a diamond-shaped pouch made from woven palm leaves. Trading for over 30 years in a humble roadside stall, this is a primary side dish that is sold all year round -- not just during Hari Raya as is the norm. It is served with chicken rendang and coconut flakes. Other than that, the nasi lemak bungkus and satay kerang have become a favourite among the locals. Their traditional cakes are a must-have too.

It is also known as Roti Canai Pelangi, in which 'pelangi' translates to 'rainbow'. Ergo, be sure to order these rainbow-coloured soft breads. Other than vivid tones, the "Wow" factor is actually the flavours incorporated to match each colour. Here's the list: red for strawberry, orange for durian, yellow for corn, green for apple and blue for yam. PLACES OF WORSHIP

Masjid Jamek Kampung Permatang

Located along the roadside, Masjid Jamek Kampung Permatang remains small and unassuming in the quiet village it is surrounded by. It may even seem obscure if you drive by too quickly. This is because it does not have easily distinguishable features like a bright round dome or tall minarets. Instead, it has a three-tier pyramidal roof form. There is also a wide, open porch with multi-coloured tiles. Although it may appear moderate, it is the most visited mosque in Permatang.

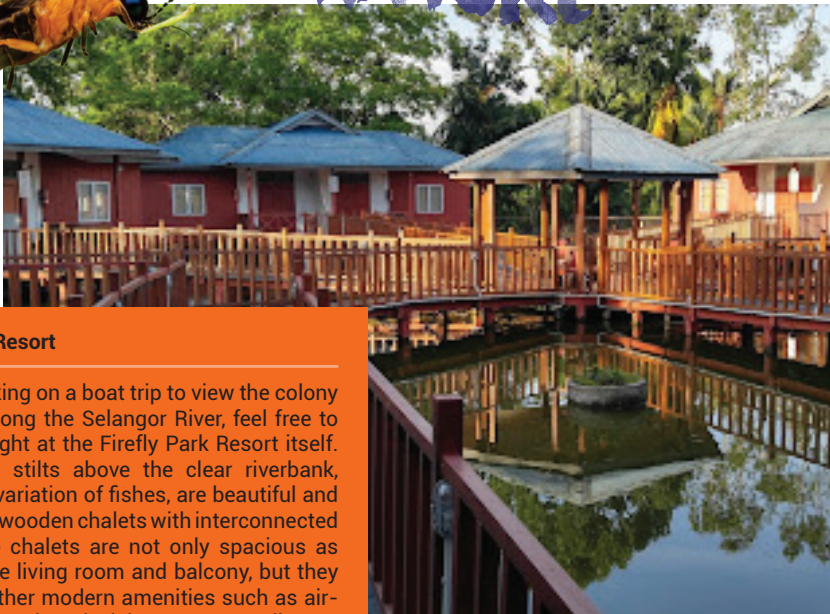

While the date of construction remains unknown, residents from the elder generation have mentioned that this worship site is over a 100 years old. Therefore, a possible guess would be in the early 20th century. In terms of the neighbouring compound, there is a well outside the mosque but it appears to be no longer in use. Across from it, there is a small Muslim burial plot.

NATURE

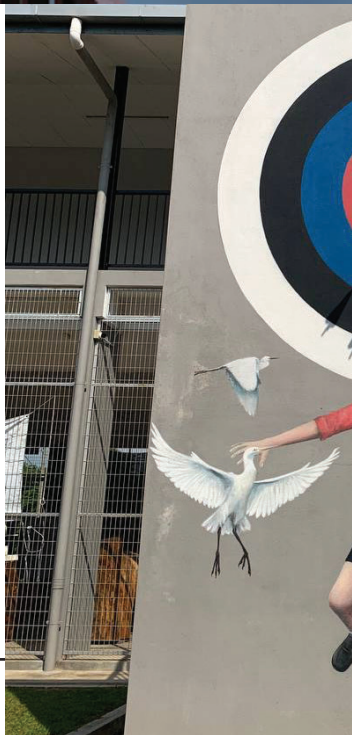

Firefly Park Resort

After embarking on a boat trip to view the colony of fireflies along the Selangor River, feel free to spend the night at the Firefly Park Resort itself. Mounted on stilts above the clear riverbank, filled with a variation of fishes, are beautiful and comfortable wooden chalets with interconnected bridges. The chalets are not only spacious as proven by the living room and balcony, but they come with other modern amenities such as air-conditioning and a television set. Depending on the number of guests per room, there are two types of chalets to choose from: two single beds and one queen bed for 4 people or one queen bed for 2 people.

Fortunately, the planning and development of these accommodations have taken the environment into consideration to prevent any ecological imbalance. Apart from an on-site restaurant, the resort also has a huge outdoor pool that offers extra activities for children at a low cost rate. A couple of examples are the mini paddle boats and inflatable walking roll balls. Free parking is also available for guests. Generally, the Firefly Park Resort is not only an affordable option but a convenient one after an exciting night of firefly-gazing.

PLACES TO VISIT

Pantai Remis

One of the few beaches in Kuala Selangor that remains a favourite is Remis Beach. It is located about 20km south of the district in Jeram -- an area in which eco-tourism is booming. Although not ideal for swimming (partially due to the shores that are reclaimed with many enormous rocks), there are still plenty of activities to do. Visitors often come to take walks on the beach, have picnics and watch the stunning sunset against the backdrop of the Straits of Melaka. Kite-flying, fishing and collecting seashells also take place here. To add more life to the scene, there are souvenir stalls and food courts selling traditional Malay cuisine and seafood to stop by.

Homestay Felda Bukit Cherakah

After an exciting yet educational adventure around Bukit Cherakah, spend a night or two at Homestay Felda Bukit Cherakah. There are four homestay packages to choose from: Dahlia, Cempaka, Bakawali and Anggerik. In terms of pricing, the Dahlia option is deemed the most expensive as the itinerary stretches across three whole days. This is followed by Cempaka which covers two days, along with Bakawali and Anggerik which involve single day tours.

In general, the packages include fees for the homestay accommodation, site visits, food and beverage throughout the tour, additional mineral water and the slew of activities listed in each program. Just to clarify, they do not cover transportation expenses to the homestay itself. Depending on the packages, here are just some of the many cultural activities to learn about and participate in: fruit carving, traditional dance and dodol or tempe-making.

Before booking through Rizqullah Holidays, keep in mind that the minimum number of guests per package is twenty. Therefore, this would make an excellent visit for a large group of friends and family. Similarly, organised groups of students, association members and tour club members are welcome too.

Muslim:

Masjid Puncak Alam

As the biggest mosque in the Puncak Alam region, Masjid Puncak Alam is a massive structure that is virtually impossible to miss. This beautiful worship building was erected in 2014, after three years of construction. It was founded by Tan Sri Rozali Ismail, the Executive Chairman of PNSB Water Sdn Bhd (formerly referred to as Puncak Niaga Sdn Bhd). However, this religious site was inaugurated by Sultan Sharafuddin Idris Shah Al-Haj. In terms of the construction, a gigantic azure blue dome has been built in between two tall gray minarets. In fact, the colour scheme of both the interior and exterior of this entire architectural wonder is painted shades of blue, gold and white. Moreover, there is an enormous yet intricately detailed white archway built at both the entrance and exit, in between the guard house. Covering 3.84 hectares of land (or 9.5 acres), the mosque has the capacity to accommodate an estimated 5000 worshippers at any one time. This is not surprising considering the open prayer room, wudhu room and closed prayer room are all equally expansive.

In addition, this entire sacred building is actually a complex that is equipped with other facilities. It is connected to a spacious multipurpose hall, mortuary management room, library, religious classroom and an administrative building. Furthermore, you do not need to worry about struggling to find a parking space as there is a huge car park available -- almost 300 cars are supposedly able to fit here.

ACCOMMODATION

Homestay Sungai Sireh

Have you ever experienced a traditional 'kampung' lifestyle? At Agrotourism Homestay Sungai Sireh, you most certainly can. This quaint homestay is actually located in an agricultural village. Along with several other kampung homes, it is encompassed by a clear, serene panoramic view of flourishing green rice fields. This landscape is also accompanied by flowing rivers and lush jungles.

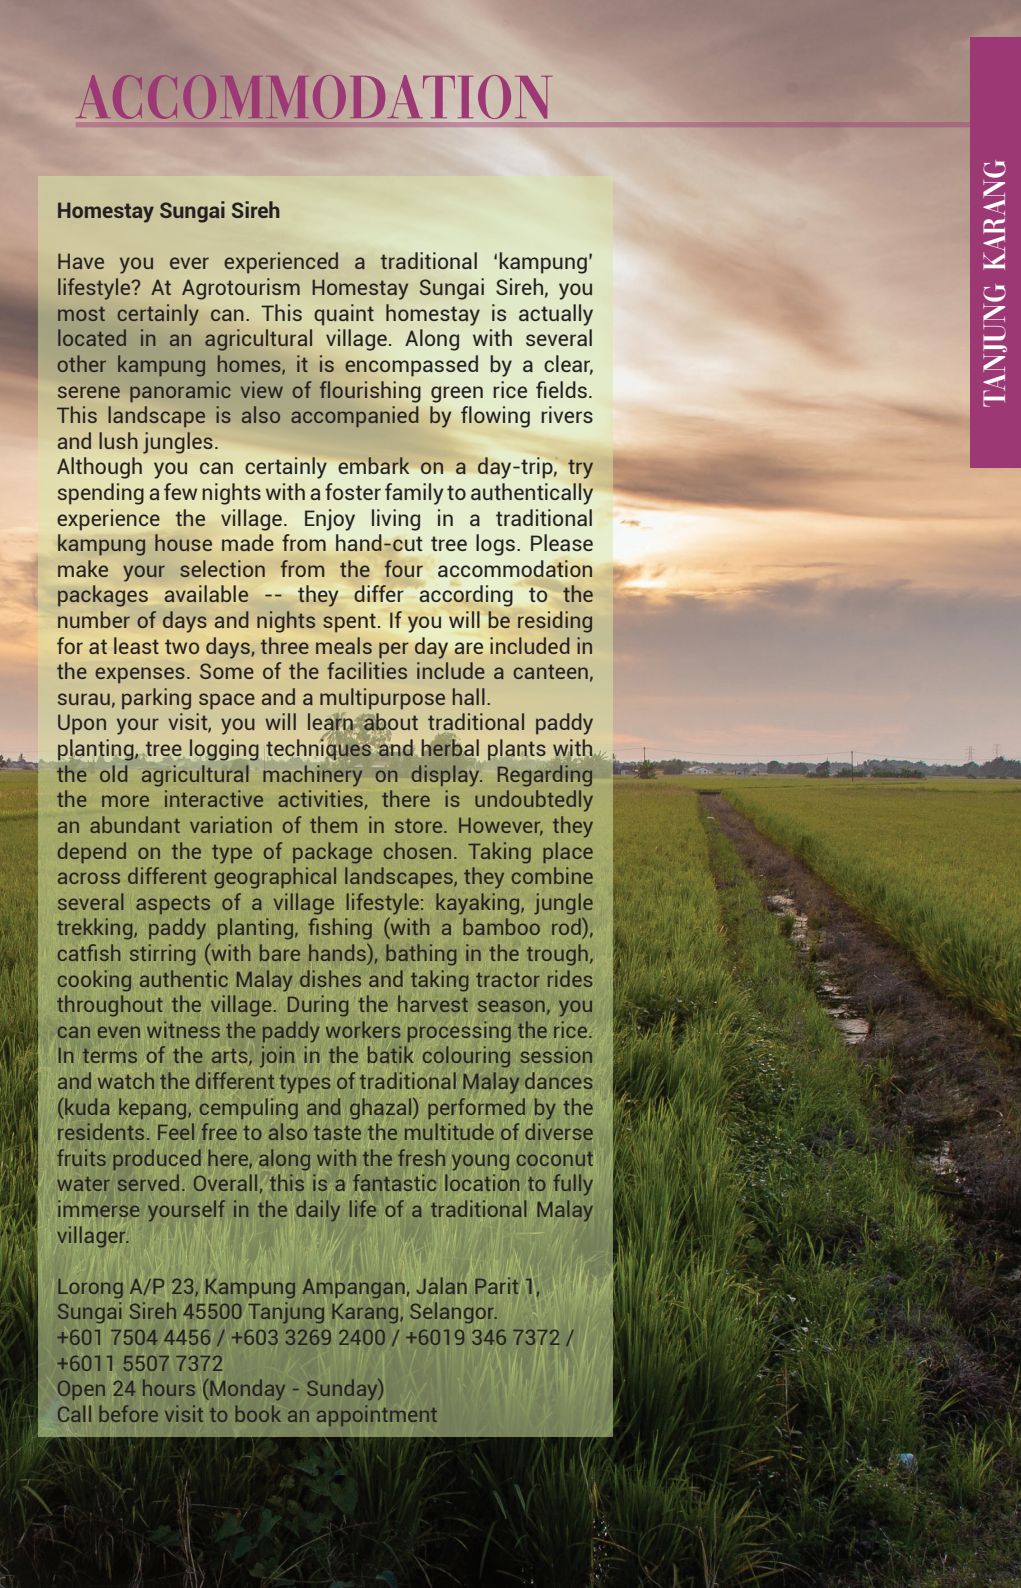

Although you can certainly embark on a day-trip, try spending a few nights with a foster family to authentically experience the village. Enjoy living in a traditional kampung house made from hand-cut tree logs. Please make your selection from the four accommodation packages available -- they differ according to the number of days and nights spent. If you will be residing for at least two days, three meals per day are included in the expenses. Some of the facilities include a canteen, surau, parking space and a multipurpose hall.

Upon your visit, you will learn about traditional paddy planting, tree logging techniques and herbal plants with the old agricultural machinery on display. Regarding the more interactive activities, there is undoubtedly an abundant variation of them in store. However, they depend on the type of package chosen. Taking place across different geographical landscapes, they combine several aspects of a village lifestyle: kayaking, jungle trekking, paddy planting, fishing (with a bamboo rod), catfish stirring (with bare hands), bathing in the trough, cooking authentic Malay dishes and taking tractor rides throughout the village. During the harvest season, you can even witness the paddy workers processing the rice. In terms of the arts, join in the batik colouring session and watch the different types of traditional Malay dances (kuda kepang, cempulung and ghazal) performed by the residents. Feel free to also taste the multitude of diverse fruits produced here, along with the fresh young coconut water served. Overall, this is a fantastic location to fully immerse yourself in the daily life of a traditional Malay villager.

Although the majority of this farm is clearly dedicated to local fruits, there are several sections allotted to other aspects of the agricultural scene. These are some of the attractions available: herb and spice garden, orchid garden, vegetable plot, stingless honey bee farm, rubber plantation, nursery, biotech lab, three-storey observation tower, courtyard and lake. In turn, a vast array of entertaining outdoor activities such as paddle boating, cycling and camping is made possible.

On top of that, there is a petting zoo filled with farm animals such as rabbits, deers, hedgehogs, ducks and goats. For extra fun (and comfort), take a mono tram or tractor ride to visit each section of the valley. Moreover, the Rimbun Cafe is also located within these grounds. Pop by for breakfast or lunch for helpings of local delicacies such as asam pedas, tempoyak and ulam. While admission fees range from RM10 to RM25 depending on nationality and age, check out their farm visit packages for a more convenient visit.
